Hello,

My name is Erin and I am an intern with the City of Millbrae. We were looking into implementing senior/disability transportation as a public service and are interested in a program like SamTrans' Ride Plus. I was wondering if the expansion of this program is at the discretion of SamTrans or if city partnership plays a role. If so, how does a city become an eligible candidate for this program?

Best,

Erin Ahlich

SUPPLY CHAIN

Insights, trends, and technologies impacting supply chain

JULY 3, 2024

From the Editor

Welcome back (a day early) to Market Moves Supply Chain!

Supply chain organizations in this year's Top 25 were notable for better protecting growth rates in a challenging operating environment, while at the same time delivering more sustainable operations.

Attacks on ships in the Red Sea have been impacting ocean carriers and are now causing some congestion at key ports in countries like Singapore, where congestion is at its worst since the COVID-19 pandemic.

A new report, titled "The Power of IE&D in the Supply Chain: Unlocking Resilience and Growth," takes an in-depth look at the correlation between IE&D effectiveness and supply chain departments. While another report, titled "Supply Chain Diversification," states that companies that take a proactive approach in their diversification efforts will stand the best odds of reaching their supply chain resiliency goals.

MIT's Center for Transportation & Logistics commissioned a new research lab, which will examine several research streams that may lead to new state-of-the-art approaches to address some of the industry's most complex challenges.

Additionally, this edition of Market Moves Supply Chain delivers five strategies for supplier negotiations, covers automated supply chain security, and more!

Happy 4th of July!
